Dear Hiring Manager,

My name is Jordan Williams and I'm a senior computer science student. I'm currently looking to gain experience in this field and grow my skillset as a future software developer. While I may not know much about your company, I'm a fast learner who will be dedicated to the job at hand. I'm skilled in programming languages such as C++, python and JavaScript.

I'm right for the job for a number of reasons. First being, I work well with people. I know how to collaborate with a team in order to ensure the best results. Another one is that I love to program, it continually challenges me to get better. Finally, I love learning. As with most things, a learning curve is to be expected and I intend to approach it head on. I know there are gaps in my knowledge and I'm excited to fill them with the experience I gain from this internship.

In conclusion, I don't know if I'm excellent. That's what I want to find out. I don't know if my skills really compare to my peers, but I think I know how to solve a problem when it's given to me. I come up with my own solutions and ideas, and I try my best. I want to learn as much as I can and improve my abilities. I hope that you consider me for the position. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jordan Williams
